Alexandria, Va. Told to Admit Negro Students

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—Federal Judge Albert V. Bryan today ordered Alexandria to admit nine Negro children to white schools next Tuesday.

The order by the U.S. District Court overturned the school board's refusal to assign the nine children to the schools. The schools are Hammond High School and the new William Ramsay and Ficklin elementary schools with a total enrollment of 2,305 white pupils.

Bryan upheld the Alexandria School Board's denial of applications by five other Negroes from transfers to white schools.

He described as "logical" the board's denial of applications by three Negroes to enter George Washington High School. The denial was on the ground that their present school, "Parker-Gray," attended only by Negroes, is closer to their homes.

The judge also upheld the board's denial on the ground of academic deficiency by two grade school pupils for transfer to white schools.

"The remaining nine applicants should be admitted to the schools they requested, the evidence not giving a basis, other than race, for their rejection," Judge Bryan said in a written opinion.

Under the order, two Negroes must be admitted to Francis Hammond High School, two to Theodore Ficklin Grade School and five to either the Patrick Henry Grade School or the William Ramsay School, at the discretion of the board.

The five originally sought transfer to Patrick Henry but now want to enter William Ramsay.

In neighboring Arlington County, four Negro seventh graders on Monday began attending Stratford Junior High School under an order by Judge Bryan, which had been upheld by higher federal courts.

Battle Looms for University at Jonesboro

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—East Arkansas proponents of university status for Arkansas State College apparently are ready to take extreme measures to secure House passage of a Senate bill promoting the Jonesboro school.

This could mean an attack on legislation affecting the University of Arkansas.

The first evidence of such a move appeared yesterday when several east Arkansas legislators sidetracked a $600,000 appropriation bill for the University Graduate Institute of Technology.

"Can Arkansas afford this large appropriation for such a facility?" asked Poinsett Rep. W. H. Thompson.

Earlier, Thompson tried to break up a committee of the whole meeting to consider budget bills by moving adjournment. He was ruled out of order.

Asked why he made such a proposal, Thompson said:

"They're planning to consider university budget bills. We just might be thinking about harassing them a little unless we can get some support for our bill."

The controversial measure, Senate Bill 9, is in a House education committee, headed by Prairie Rep John Bethell.

Thompson predicted a "do pass" recommendation from Bethell's committee. Bethell is considered as an Ark. State supporter.

Craighead Rep. Norman Wimpy said yesterday the bill might be left in committee for several days.

"I think we (Ark-State) can gain by the delay. University of Arkansas supporters have lost strength by the tactics they used against us."

University officials at first refrained from taking sides on the bill, but last Saturday, university trustees and trustees of Southern State and Henderson State colleges issued a statement opposing it.

"I don't mind losing a fair fight," said Wimpy. "But I don't think this was fair."

Wimpy said leaving the bill in committee would eliminate the possibility of amendment, at least temporarily.

"I would take 66 votes to pull the bill out of committee for amendment," Wimpy said. "They (the opposition) know they couldn't get that many."

Clark Rep. J. Hugh Lookadoo has prepared an amendment which would give university status to Henderson and Southern State in addition to as to Arkansas State. All State backers oppose the amendment.

Asked yesterday if he planned to attempt to pull the bill out of committee for amendment, Lookadoo declined to say.

"I'm waiting and watching," he said.

Kiwanians See Drawings of Buggy Plant

Colored drawings of the $200,000 Huntington "Buggy Works" and western design buildings to be erected at Emmet by the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Company, were shown to the Hope Kiwanis Club yesterday by Architect Jimmy Norman of Shreveport.

Mr. Norman told the club of a recent visit to Disneyland in California where he obtained some ideas for several of the buildings, including an old time "saloon" with swinging doors, a harness shop, grist mill, blacksmith shop, general store and other structures to be erected with "that old-time authentic look."

Ground breaking ceremonies at Emmet took place Jan. 15 but progress has been slowed by adverse weather conditions, the speaker pointed out.

All types of carriages and buggies will be manufactured and demonstrated on a dirt track that will include bleacher seats for prospective buyers and spectators.

When the project is completed, about 30 persons will be on the permanent payroll and from 400 to 500 buggies are expected to be turned out each year. The project will also serve as a tourist attraction.

The main plant building, Architect Norman pointed out, is so being constructed that it can easily be converted to another working industry . . . if we are disappointed in the buggy and carriage business.

The speaker went on to say that two buggy manufacturing plants, both in southern Indiana, were purchased by the utility firm last fall and will be merged into the Emmet operations.

Dale Dunn was introduced as a new member. Guests yesterday were: Guy Basye, Cliff Bridges, Forrest Hair of Hope; Sanford Fields, Herb Pekar, Floyd Whitte and George Stewart of Little Rock and O. K. Brock of Shreveport.

Services will be held at 2:30 p.m. at Spring Hill Methodist Church by the Rev. James Shadock. Burial by Oakerrest will be in Memory Gardens.

Active pallbearers: Elbert Tarkenton, H. C. Townsend, E. H. Collins, Clyde Tullis, Eric Collins and Arlie Cox.

Three Missing in Crash Near Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Three men were reported missing and presumed dead in the crash of a B-47 medium bomber near the Little Rock Air Force Base last night.

The plane plunged to the ground and exploded as it approached the base for a landing after completing a training flight.

Base officials identified the men aboard as Capt. Charles W. Stevens Jr., 41, aircraft commander; Capt. Robert S. McCoy, 34, co-pilot; and 1st Lt. J. W. Smith, 24, navigator.

The plane had been in radio contact with the base shortly before the crash and had reported no trouble.

Emergency units from the base were delayed for almost two hours by roads made almost impassable by recent heavy rains. The wreck age was in a heavy wooded area about eight miles north of Jacksonville east of the Curbot highway.

The plane belonged to the 345th Bomb Squadron.

New Airliner Carrying 73 Persons Crashes In River, Only 8 Survive

WASHINGTON (AP)—A B50 weather reconnaissance plane with 73 persons aboard is missing in the area of Bermuda, the Air Force said today.

Aircraft from Bermuda are searching for the plane.

The missing plane was based at Bermuda, a unit of the 60th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron there.

First advices received here did not say when the plane took off or how long it has gone unreported.

However, the Air Force said a Japanese ship reported seeing a plane crash into the sea west of Bermuda.

The unidentified Soviet officer and an interpreter walked across the West German border for a 10-minute conference with the U.S. Military Police captain in charge of the American border checkpoint.

The Soviet officer then returned to the Soviet post opposite at Marjonnern. The American, who declined to give his name to news-Continued on Page Two

Water Hampers Rescue Efforts in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A huge new American Airlines plane carrying 73 persons crashed shattering into the fog-cloaked East River just before midnight Tuesday. Sixty-five were feared dead.

Nine survivors were in hospitals, 10 bodies were recovered and 46 were still missing. The plane carried a crew of 6.

Nine survivors were plucked from the icy, rain-spattered water in the first grim hours of rescue operations, but one died hours later in a hospital.

Swirling currents, winds up to 40 m.p.h. and the rain-hampered searchers who hunted for bodies in water, littered with luggage and chunks of the plane wreckage.

The missing persons included Kukulka Zachary, producer of the Kukulka-Fran and Ollie television program.

The airliner, a Lockheed Electra four turbo-prop model, put into service only about a week ago, was relying on instruments to land in the fog and a light drizzle at La Guardia field at the end of a nonstop flight from Chicago.

It plummeted into the river between 2,500 and 4,000 feet short of the shoreline start of the runway. The force of the impact crumpled the plane in two.

The disaster scene was only about half a mile from Rikers Island, where a Northeast Airlines crashed after a takeoff in a snowstorm Feb. 11, 1957. Twenty of the 94 persons aboard the Northeast plane were killed.

The American airliner crashed at 11:54 p.m., 40 minutes after it was due at La Guardia.

A tugboat crew heading down the river heard the crash and sped to the scene.

"We heard a terrific crash," said Everett Phelps, 48, co-skipper of the tug.

"The noise seemed to come from about 800 feet away. We turned on a searchlight and saw a plane crumpling up in all directions."

"I pulled three persons out. There seemed to be bodies all around and there were continual screams for help."

Phelps said his crew had picked up eight survivors using bolt hooks for some, before the wreckage slipped away from them in the darkness.

Coast Guard boats raced to the scene and gave a tragic report. Continued on Page Two

Faubus, U. S. Settle His Tax Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The government has closed its tax case against Gov. Orval E. Faubus, the Arkansas Gazette reported in today's edition.

Neither Faubus nor Curtis E. Mathis, district director for the Internal Revenue Service, would comment on the report, which the Little Rock newspaper attributed to unidentified "reliable sources."

The newspaper's story said the settlement that had been reached was not revealed.

The tax case was revealed by Faubus last year, who charged that it was an effort to punish him for his stand against school integration.

Faubus said the IRS suggested he should have listed an additional amount totaling some $100,000 in taxable income for his returns for 1954, 1955 and 1956. The total included rent on the executive mansion and other expenses paid by the state.

Last December the governor said the IRS had begun an audit of the mansion expense records and that completion of the audit would bring a final settlement.

Integration at Primary Level First

LITTLE ROCK (AP)Integration, if applied, would be better at the primary level than in high school, a heavy majority of some 300 Little Rock residents at a meeting last night indicated in a vote.

The group, attending a panel discussion sponsored by the Women's Emergency Committee to Open Our Schools, was asked to presume that integration was unavoidable. Then, in a show of hands, they supported the primary-level integration policy by about seven to one.

Panel members also backed this plan, which is exactly opposite to the present Little Rock formula in which integration was to start in high school and progress down through the grades.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus closed the four Little Rock high schools to black integration.

Psychologist Lewis Long, a panel member, said it is "much better to start younger." Another panelist, the Rev. W. A. Wilcox, said prejudice should be lesser in lower grades.

Panelist Chris Barrier, 16, a junior at closed Hall High, said not around a primary school would feel ridiculous since none of the children would be older than 11.

J. T. Gibson, 33 of Jonesboro was jailed at Newport on an open charge. He was arrested at a roadblock at Hoxie.

Prosecutor Wayne Boyce said he would file charges of bank robbery and armed robbery against Gibson today.

"Picking up bodies everywhere." A temporary morgue was set up at a nearby Queens hotel, and survivors were rushed to Flushing Hospital. Seven were in critical condition.

A survivor, Herbert Forman, 20, of North Plainfield, N.J., told Newsweek at Queens General Hospital he was leaning against a window looking at the lights of the city when:

"Just as we about to land there was a sudden jolt and then an awful lot of noise, and we were in the water. It started rushing into the cabin, and I was completely covered."

"Then I was floating in the water, and I don't know how, but with the help of somebody, I think it was the flight engineer, I was lifted to a wing."

"I had been sitting in the front of the ship, and I guess I was just lucky."

At the airport, a number of persons, several of them women in tears, waited in the airline lounge for word of survivors.

Among the missing was the pilot, Capt. Albert H. De Witt of Detroit, Mich.

An official of the new Federal Aviation Agency said that "the last contact with the pilot was routine in nature."

NEW YORK (AP)—A glistering new turboprop American Airlines plane with 72 persons aboard plunged into the chilling fog covered waters of the East River with a shattering crash late Tuesday night. Sixty-five apparently perished, despite rescue efforts by harbor craft.

The plane's pilot, using instruments because of the murky weather conditions, was feeling his way toward a runway at La Guardia Airport on a nonstop flight from Chicago.

But for some undetermined reason, the big four-engine turboprop craft, smashed into the water and burst apart about half a mile from the shore and out of the runway.

Some of the passengers and crew were flung from, or floated out of, the wreckage before it sank to the river bottom 30 to 35 feet below.

A tugboat chugging along a few hundred feet away cut loose two barges. It was towing here from Connecticut and raced to the crash site. Crewmen leaped into the water or used boat hooks to pull out the eight persons known to have survived. One was an 8-year-old boy.

A member of the tug's crew said the sights and sounds were something never to be forgotten.

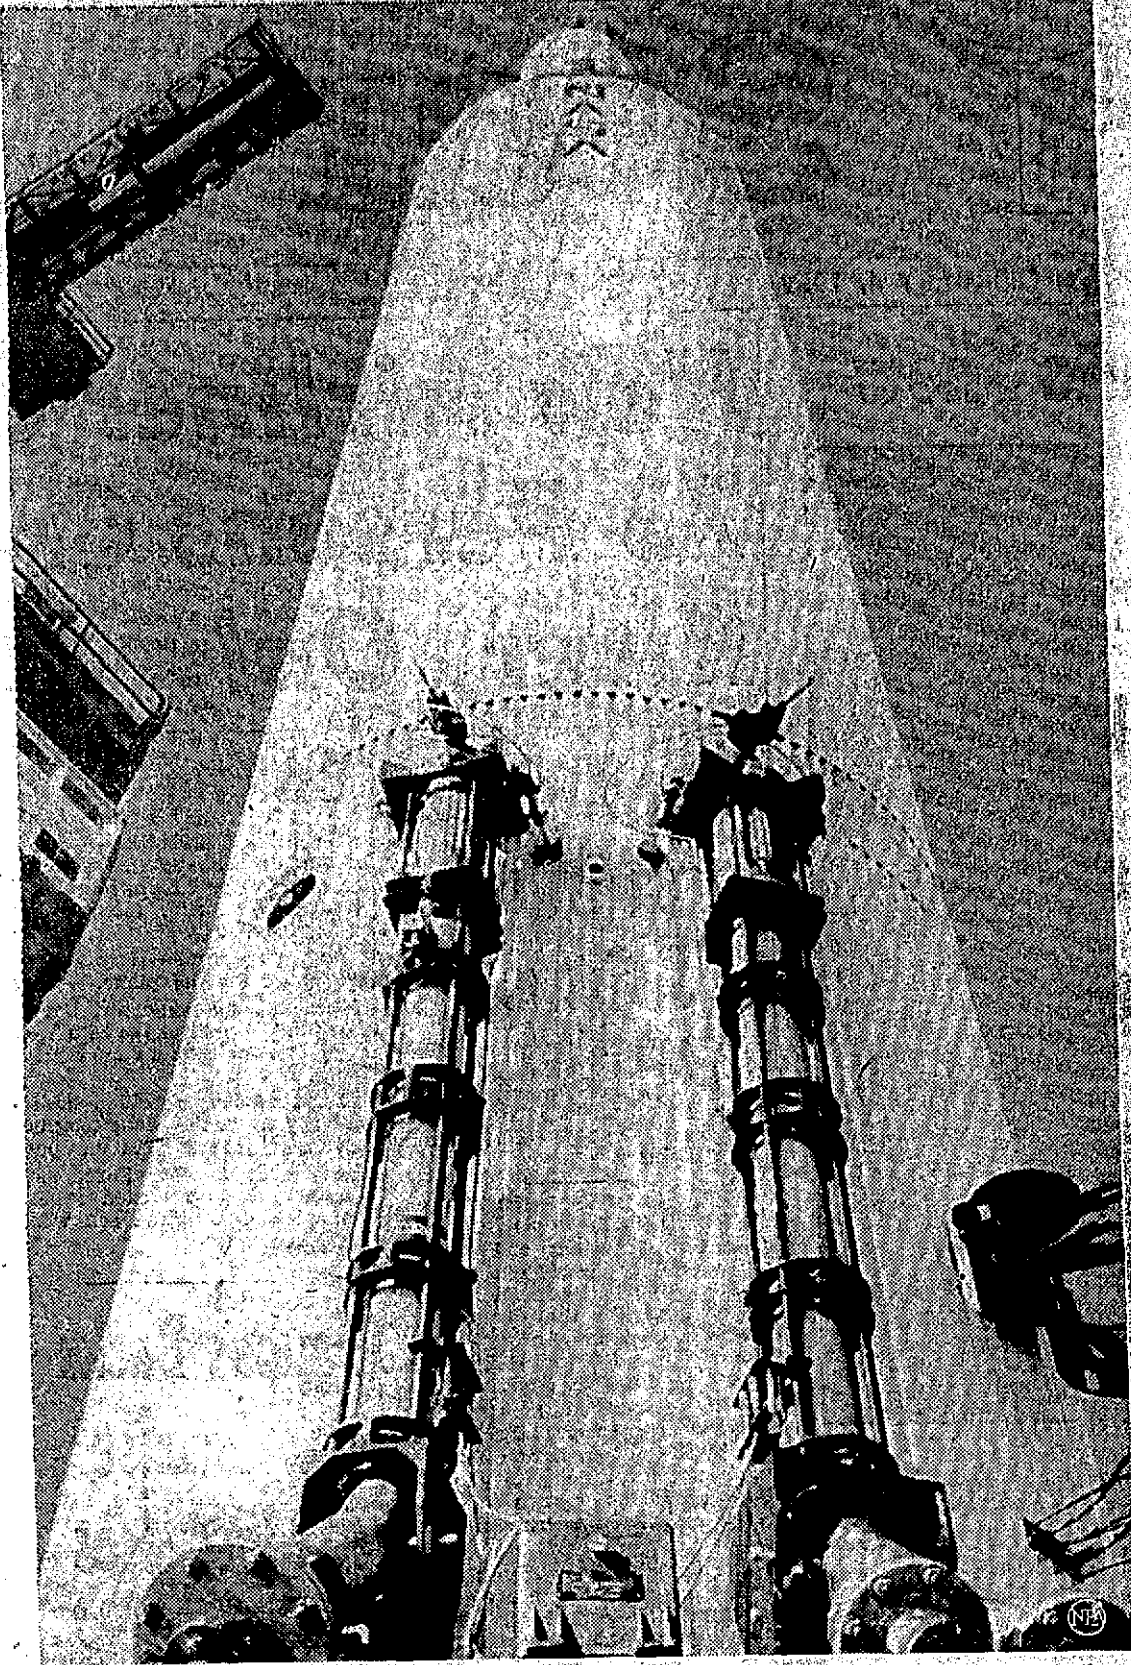

"There seemed to be bodies all around and there were continual screams for help," he said.

All through the night, and into a doleful gray, rainy dawn, a huge array of boats searched the river for bodies. By mid-morning only 19 had been recovered, leaving 45 still missing. The eight survivors were in hospitals.

The mother of the rescued boy had been pulled from the water alive but died afterward. The boy said his mother swam and held his head above water before he was rescued.

Swirling river currents, plus rain and wind up to 40 m.p.h., hampered the search for other bodies, and gave rise to fears that some of them might be swept miles out into Long Island Sound.

The site of the crash was men, drove to a nearby headquarters to report.

The four-truck convoy remained parked at Marienborn, within sight of the free West.

In temperature several degrees below freezing, five American soldiers spent a second uncomfortable night wrapped in blankets in four trucks parked alongside the autobahn. They had been stranded there since early Monday afternoon.

At daylight an officer from the U.S. Army detachment at Helmstedt walked the 200 yards to the men in Communist East Germany and took them hot coffee and breakfast.

U.S. military authorities considered the convoy stoppage the gravest incident since Moscow began its drive last November to oust the Western powers from West Berlin.

The United States repeatedly protested to Soviet army headquarters that the action was a breach of the Soviet Union's guarantee of free access to the city, given at the end of the 1948-49 blockade.

But there was no indication the Soviets would back down or that the United States would recall the trucks to West Berlin, as the Soviet border guards suggested.

"The Russians have said only that they will take the matter under consideration," a U. S. Army spokesman reported.

Private traffic along the autobahn continued uneventfully. No Allied military convoys were scheduled, but an empty U.S. Army trailer truck passed without delay through the Soviet checkpoint early today en route to East Berlin. This indicated the Soviets only wanted to make an issue over searching cargoes of loaded trucks.

Private vehicles driven by members of the Western forces and German cars and trucks also went to and from West Berlin.

The Army convoy—consisting of the four 2½ ton trucks loaded with jeeps, four GI drivers and a corporal in charge—cleared the West Berlin border en route to West Germany without incident Monday morning.

Soviet guards at the border between West and East Germany stopped the trucks Monday afternoon and demanded to inspect the cargo. The convoy commander, Cpl. Richard C. Masiero of West Stockbridge, Mass., refused in accordance with standing army orders to let the Soviets inspect only convoy manifest papers.

Ruling Means Schools Will Not Be Opened

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The refusal of a federal judge to allow the reopening of Little Rock's closed public high schools on a temporarily segregated basis probably means they won't be opened at all this term.

That's the view taken by School Board President Ed I. McKinley Jr. as a result of a hearing here yesterday before U. S. District Judge John E. Miller.

The board told the judge it wanted to temporarily restore segregation while it worked out a new integration plan. Miller said his court was unable to permit that.

The judge said he did not have power under the law to suspend the present integration plan without having a new one to substitute.

But though Miller turned down the board's request, he said the board members had shown good faith in their actions.

"They appear to recognize their responsibility and obligations as officials under the law," he said, and added:

"This court knows of no affirmative steps that the board might take toward the opening of the closed schools on an integrated basis so long as the act of the General Assembly of Arkansas under which the governor issued his proclamation closing the schools is in effect.

Miller referred to a state law under which Gov. Orval E. Faubus shut the city's four public high schools in September before classes began.

The judge said the court should not order the board to reopen the schools, even to resume integration, as long as that law is in effect. It has been challenged in U.S. District Court here and will be ruled on by a three-judge court at a date to be set.

During the 2½ hour hearing, Miller criticized the Justice Department for accusing the school board of acting in bad faith by asking to be allowed to open the schools temporarily segregated.

The charge was "entirely arbitrary" and "utterly unimindful of the problems confronting the defendants," he said.

The Justice Department, taking part in the case as a friend of the court, opposed the board's request along with the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Men, Money Grow Feeble With Age

By RAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Cautious comments of a pavement poet: Men, inevitably, grow feeble with age. So often, does their money.

Time waters down most currencies. This is happening in our own lives to the American dollar. There is an old slang saying that "money talks," and it still does. But there was a time when the U.S. dollar didn't merely talk. It shouted in a voice admired—and feared—around the globe. This is no longer quite so true. The "mighty dollar" no longer is almighty. It has developed a leprosy. While other currencies have been building up muscles, such as the Swiss franc, the German mark, the dollar has been losing weight.

If a man had lost as much weight, comparatively, as the dollar has, he would be in a hospital bed calling for blood transfusions and an oxygen tent.

Postwar inflation has swept all countries to varying degrees. The creeping inflation in the United States has gone on so steadily that it is only occasionally we are sharply reminded that, while we have more money in our pockets now, it doesn't have the same value.

Here are two recent examples that made me sharply realize the value of the dollar, that was, a dollar.

1. A lady in our office casually remarked that it now cost her $2.25 merely to park her car in a midtown Manhattan lot during working hours. Remember when a traveling man could get a good hotel room for $2 a night—and they parked the car free?

2. A panhandler hit me up. Scratching in my pockets, I found only 23 cents in change—and gave it to him with an apology. "Don't you have a buck you can spare?" he demanded.

Inflation waters down not only a people's currency, it also waters down their dreams. Its terrible cost is paid least by the shiftless grasshopper, most by the thrifty ant—and thereby it violates the morality behind all sensible living.

Inflation doesn't wait for posterity to present its bill. It presents its bill now, to, and the hard-earned dollar a man saved yesterday to buy himself comfort tomorrow is spent to keep himself afloat in the high-priced world of today.

How Did the Youths Take Over Music?

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

(3rd of 5 articles in the teen-age music industry)

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How did teen-agers take over the popular music field?

There can be no doubt that they did. The best-selling records in the nation are those favored by that age group called "Twist, Twelve and Twenty" by Pat Boone in his best-selling book. These twisters call the tune, and the adults grudgingly follow.

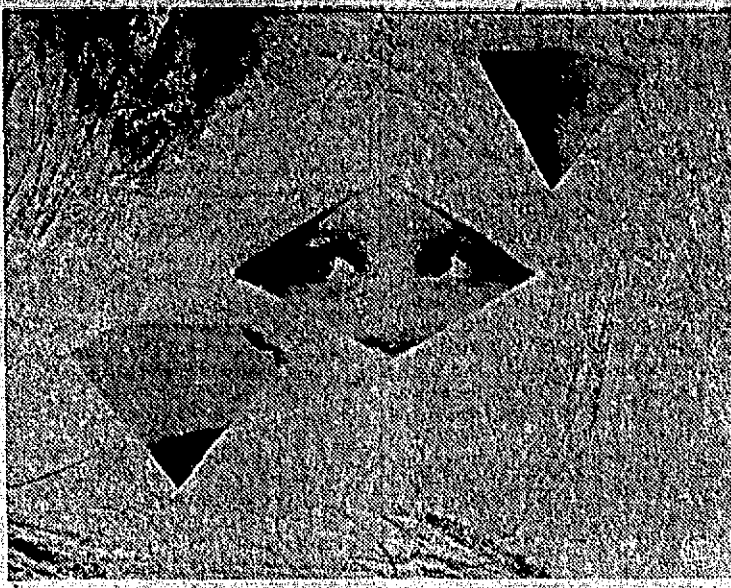

This revolution in taste has taken place in the last two or three years. The Castro of the revolt was a side-burned guitar thumper named Elvis Presley.

But one man doesn't make an army, and Elvis had powerful allies.

The disc jockeys have had much to do with upsurge of the teen-age music industry. These record spinners range from the milkman's matinee announcer of

DOROTHY DIX

Erratic Evelyn Not Ready to Do Much Settling Down

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I'm 20, want to get married and settle down but so far I have had only two boy friends. The first one, Lester, was my steady for a year and a half. He threatened to break up unless I had an affair with him so I did. But whenever I mentioned marriage he always changed the subject. Finally he left me for another girl. He gives her very expensive presents and his friends say he is going to marry her. Alce, the second boy, says he loves me but I must do everything he says even if I disapprove. I know I'll never love him as much as I do Lester but at least he's available. What shall I do?—Evelyn.

Dear Evelyn: You are about as ready to settle down as a Mexican jumping bean. Apparently you have absolutely no moral sense and certainly you have no judgment.

Observe a top record official: "Take a town like Los Angeles. There are 23 radio stations and at least five disc jockeys at each station. Each one is trying to make a name for himself, and so they're looking for records that are new and different. Quality makes no difference."

"The teen agers are like sheep; they will follow whatever they hear. If they're exposed long enough to bad music, that's what they'll like."

Al Jarvis is the Christopher Columbus of disc jockeys, having discovered the art form with his "Make Believe Ballroom" here in 1932.

"The jockey owes it to his employers to try to get the best rating possible. The way to get it is to play what the teen ager wants to hear. They don't want 'Nearer My God to Thee' in B flat. They want rock 'n' roll. Jarvis said, 'When will their tastes in music get better? When we make this a better world for them to live in.'"

Several Offer Their Eyes to Billy Graham

HONOLULU (AP)—One offer came from a 65-year-old woman in Kentucky.

Another came from a Jewish businessman in New York City. They were offering their eyes to evangelist Billy Graham, afflicted with an ailment in his left eye.

The 40-year-old Protestant crusader received thousands of letters and telegrams expressing concern. They came from Catholics, Moslems and persons of many faiths. They came from prominent people and little people in many countries around the world.

Graham says he is overwhelmed and humbled.

Many persons, he says, write that they are praying for him. The evangelist, hearing the end of a three-week visit in Hawaii, says: "I am convinced that God does answer prayer. Although I don't consider my condition critical, it did something to me spiritually to know that so many people all over the world were praying and were interested."

Of the letter from the elderly woman in Kentucky offering her eye, Graham said: "I was so overwhelmed, I was moved to tears over it. I never had anything like that happen to me before."

Among those who sent letters or telegrams were Vice President Richard M. Nixon, labor leader Walter Reuther and the late film producer Cecil B. De Mille. Graham said De Mille's letter was written only four days before the movie producer died last month.

Graham was stricken with an ailment in his left eye late last year. Doctors described it as a nervous disorder, probably due to overwork and strain.

He said he is praying for him.

Temporary Judge Is Recommended

WASHINGTON (AP)—The appointment of a temporary judge for the U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals was suggested yesterday by Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.).

Mills suggested that the first vacancy which occurs in the court be filled.

Seven judges now are on the bench, Circuit, which includes Arkansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Missouri and North and South Dakota.

Eisenhower had asked action on the emergency program, with a delay until later on the long-range provisions.

One major provision in the administration is a provision inserted at the last minute to raise the interest rates on VA-guaranteed loans from 4 to 5 1/2 per cent.

Government housing officials have said this was essential to revive a dying GI home loan program. They testified the 4 per cent rate was too low to interest private lenders.

The House scheduled separate action today on a bill to make the same raise in interest rates on GI home loans, and to authorize 300 million dollars in additional funds for direct loans to veterans unable to get other forms of mortgage financing.

His execution raised the unofficial total in Cuba since the revolution to 205.

The revolutionary tribunal in La Habana sentenced to death three top aides of former Police Chief Col. Esteban Ventura whom Castro has called the "Hitler of Cuba."

The sentenced men were Jose Alfredo Sierra, Emilio Caro and Miguel Arns Polo, all bodyguards for Ventura. They were accused of tortures and killings. Ventura fled to Florida after the revolution.

Body of Housewife Found in Well

SILAS, Ala. (AP)—The body of a housewife was recovered today from an abandoned well near Silas. Officers said her husband, member of a prominent Choctaw County family, was charged with murder.

Sheriff Charlie Littlepage quoted the husband, John L. McPherson, 38, as saying he shot his wife by accident. McPherson is a twin, a farmer and brother of Probate Judge Richard McPherson.

The sheriff said he and a search party recovered the partially clad body of 35-year-old Irma Lee McPherson from the 12-foot deep well shortly after midnight. The well is about seven miles northwest of Silas.

The sheriff added that the exact place of the shooting has not yet been determined. The husband was quoted as saying he used a bulldozer to push dirt on top of the body after he threw it into the well.

Man Charged With Murder of Wife

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—State hospital authorities said today that examination Jan. 4. He was charged in the murder of his wife is not yet complete.

The man, Bill Russell, 42, of Altus, near Ozark, was ordered to the hospital for a 30-day mental examination Jan. 4. He was charged with first degree murder in the fatal shooting Jan. 2 of his 42-year-old wife at their home.

Mrs. Russell was shot through the temple with a .22 caliber pistol, police said.

Shooting Accident Fatal to Man

CLARKSVILLE, Ark. (AP)—A C. Bensley, 75, of Clarksville, was killed yesterday when his 30-30 rifle accidentally discharged while he was hunting a chicken hawk. Coroner D. H. Vaughn said Bensley was found lying about 50 yards from the house of his daughter, Mrs. Sam Warren, with whom he was living.

Mrs. Warren told Vaughn her father went after a hawk that had been bothering his chickens. Bensley was shot in the head.

Turns Down AM&N Appropriation

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A committee of the Legislature yesterday turned down an appropriations increase for Arkansas AM&N College at Pine Bluff despite a plea by Sen. Morrell Gathright.

Gathright, a Pine Bluff resident, told the Joint Legislative Budget Committee there would be a rash of applications by Negroes to attend other state colleges if AM&N should lose its accreditation.

The all-Negro school asked the committee to increase its budget from $700,000 to $850,000.

Gathright said AM&N had obtained accreditation only by the skin of its teeth, adding it is difficult to stay within its appropriation.

The college's original request was for $900,000. This was cut to $700,000 by the Legislative Council, which serves as a pre-session budget committee.

Knockout Not Likely in Fight Tonight

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Pre-fight feuding has made Del Flanagan and Ralph Dupas sound like a couple of ill-tempered slugfests. But a knockout in tonight's televised bout will be one of the upsets of the year, no matter who wins.

"Dupas can outpunch Flanagan and will if he has to," said Lou Cross, the New Orleans dandy's trainer.

"What a joke," answered Bud Hemmings, Flanagan's manager. "Gil Turner fought them both. Ask him who hurt him more."

Neither Flanagan nor Dupas is famous for powerhouse punching. Both are slick and savvy fighters, however, high on the list of welterweight contenders.

Flanagan will outweight Dupas by about four pounds, 148 to 144. He will be fighting in the chummy surroundings of the City Auditorium in St. Paul, his hometown, and he is on a winning streak.

In addition, Flanagan is campaigning loudly for a (its) and can't afford to lose prestige now. He has been established as the favorite.

Dupas is younger and maybe quicker than Flanagan, which is saying a lot. He, too, is looking for a championship shot and currently holds down No. 3 rank in the National Boxing Assn. ratings. Flanagan is No. 4.
